What is the Afrobarometer?

• The Afrobarometer (AB) is a comparative series of public opinion surveys that measure public attitudes toward democracy, governance, the economy, leadership, identity, and other related issues.

• The AB is an independent, non-partisan, African-based network of researchers.

• The first round of surveys took place in 1999-2001 in 12 countries. The Network is now conducting “Round 5” surveys in up to 35 countries during 2011-2012.

• Purpose: To measure popular perspectives on the social, political, and economic environments in each country where it is implemented and across Africa.

• Goal: To give the public a voice in policy making processes by providing high-quality public opinion data to policy-makers, policy advocates and civil society organizations, academics, media, donors and investors, and ordinary Africans.

Survey Methodology

• Nationally representative sample of adult citizens
  – Random selection of TAs, EAs & households
  – Every adult citizen in household has equal chance
  – Use quota system: equal number of men and women
• Face-to-face interviews in either Chichewa or Chitumbuka
• Standard instrument across countries for comparability
• Malawi R5 survey interviewed 2400 adult Malawian citizens;
  – Yielding results with a margin of error of +/- 2% @ 95% confidence level
• Malawi R5 field work run between 4 June and 1 July 2012

Topic 2:
Economic evaluation

www.afrobarometer.org
Economic evaluation

- One in two think the country is going in the wrong direction
- Over 7/10 feel the country’s economic conditions are bad
  - The feeling is strongest in cities (80%)
- Generally, people are optimistic about the country’s economic conditions
  - The present is considered bad but better than previous and women and the young (36% each) are the most optimistic
  - The future is considered better than the present and the North and Centre (52%) and the educated (51%) are the most optimistic
- Own economic conditions are consistently considered better than country’s and other Malawians conditions

www.afrobarometer.org
• People consider own present economic conditions to be bad and worse than last year but expect them to improve
• Education, sex & age matter less in the assessment of own current economic conditions
• The majority had enough food, clean water and cooking fuel BUT not health care and cash over the previous 12 months
• Cash income poverty is the most endemic as over 3/4 regardless of age group, location, education and sex experienced it – 62% reported having no cash-bringing job
• Food poverty was more prevalent among the least educated (59%)
• Access to health care problem cuts across education levels, age groups and sex but varies by region - North (71%), Centre (66%) and South (54%)

Topic 3:
Government Performance and Serious Problems

www.afrobarometer.org
Government Performance & Most Important Problems

• The majority think that government is performing well in ensuring availability of fuel (59%) and managing the economy (52%)
  – Highest approval ratings came from cities and the North
• The least approval rating was on controlling inflation (55%)
• The most serious problems mentioned included food insecurity, poor economic management, lack of potable water and poor health care
• Majority of Malawians (73%) think that government is likely to solve the problems in the next 5 years
• While there are no differences in the assessment by sex, age group and education level, differences are in terms of location and region
  – The most optimistic were citizens in the North (80% said likely as opposed to 73% for the Centre and 69% for the South)
  – The most pessimistic were city dwellers (36% said unlikely as opposed to 19% for both towns and rural areas)
Now let’s speak about the performance of the present government of this country. How well or badly would you say the current government is handling the following...?

% represents proportion that approves the government.

- Fuel availability: 59%
- Economic management: 52%
- Forex availability: 46%
- Job creation: 43%
- Food security: 42%
- Poverty reduction: 39%
- Inflation management: 34%
- Income gap management: 33%

In your opinion, what is the most important problem facing this country that government should address?

www.afrobarometer.org
Taking the problem that you mentioned first, how likely do you think it is that government will solve this problem within the next five years?

www.afrobarometer.org
Conclusions

• The media does its watchdog job effectively and is expected to be checking on government
• Radio remains the major source of information
• Of all constitutional bodies, the Ombudsman is the least known even in cities
• ACB is generally thought to be neutral and law abiding
• While applauding the performance of government in the handling of the economy, especially the fuel and forex crises, people feel that it has failed to manage inflation
• Lack of access to cash income and health care are the most common problems experienced by Malawians

Conclusions (contd.)

- In the current year, household food insecurity has joined the almost permanent problems of lack of potable water, limited access to health care and general poverty.
- MPs have to improve their performance as many of them are thought not to perform well.
- Likewise, Government has to improve its performance in improving living conditions as many people think the country is going in the wrong direction and that the country’s and people’s economic conditions are bad.
- Our experience is that views of Malawians are generally consistent. Our free advice: please take them seriously.
